Wheeler And Brookhart Sitting At Washington Court House, O., Today

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
I. N. S. Correspondent

Washington Court House, Ohio, April 11. (INS.)—The Daugherty investigating committee ran into a stone wall today when Mel S. Daugherty, brother of the former Attorney General, flatly refused to obey a subpoena issued by the Wheeler-Brookhart committee.

Washington Court House, Ohio, April 11—With its torchlight of investigation turned away temporarily from the nations capitol, the Wheeler Brookhart committee today followed a trail of alleged corruption to this Ohio town on a "tip" that evidence of a sensational character is locked within the vaults of the Midland National Bank.

Represented by Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat of Montana, acting prosecutor, and Senator Brookhart, Republican of Iowa, chairman, the committee arrived here this morning from Washington, D .C. to conduct a personal examination of the banks records.

The investigation was prompted by secret reports that thousands of dollars were deposited in the bank by men high in public life under circumstances which could not easily be explained.

The visit here marked the second

JAPAN PROTESTS VIGOROUSLY ON THE IMMIGRATION PLAN

Washington, April 11. (INS.)—The Japanese Government has filed a vigorous protest with the United States against the provisions of the new immigration bill, now pending in Congress, it was announced at the State Department today.

Notes exchanged between the two Governments were read to the Senate this afternoon by Senator Colt, Republican of Rhode Island, during the debate on the immigration bill.

The Japanese note, remarkably blunt for a diplomatic communication charged that enactment of the Japanese exclusion proposal would "seriously offend the just pride of a friendly nation," and intimated strongly that "grave consequences" might follow its adoption.

The only effect of this praise of the immigration bill, the Japanese ambassador declared, would be to exclude but 146 Japanese per year.

"It is indeed difficult to believe," he advised Secretary Hughes, "that it can be the intention of the people of your great country, who always stand for high principles of justice and fair play in the intercourse of nations, to resort—in order to secure the annual exclusion of 146 Japanese—to a measure which would not only seriously offend the just pride of a friendly nation that has been always earnest and diligent in its efforts to preserve the friendship of your people, but would also seem to involve the question of the good faith, and therefore of the honor, of their Government or at least of its executive branch."

The manifest object of the exclusion clause, the ambassador said, "is to single out Japan as a nation, stigmatizing them as unworthy and undesirable in the eyes of the American people."

The Japanese note, coupled with the reply of Secretary Hughes, also served to lay before the Senate for the first time an official summary of the nature and purport of the so-called "gentleman's agreement."

MADE GOOD RECORD

A postoffice inspector visited the local post office yesterday and conducted a letter or card throwing test of the clerks in the office. Out of 3 340 cards "thrown" but 14 failed to land in their proper receptacles, which speaks well for the efficiency of the local letter shooters.

HUGO STINNES, MOST WEALTHY GERMAN, DIED YESTERDAY

Secretary Mellon Says His Death Will Not Affect International Financial Arrangements.

LIVED MODEST LIFE

Washington, April 11 (INS.)—The death of Hugo Stinnes Germany's richest man, will have no effect on the German financial situation, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon said today.

Mellon, who is one of the richest men in the world, was quoted as declaring that there is no man in the world so big that his death would be felt materially in an international financial way.

Berlin, April 10.—Hugo Stinnes, more closely identified with German industrial life than any other man died this evening at 8:30.

Indefatigable in his labors he struggled against the impending end and was conscious to the last.

Three major operations had been performed, the first about four weeks ago for gall stones, and it was owing to the impossibility of keeping the patient quiet, according to the surgeons, that complications arose, necessitating further operations. It was reported that pneumonia developed.

Hugo Stinnes was spoken of in Continental Europe as the German who owned everything in sight, and from the peculiar pleasure he found in confiding the size of his fortune to all who would listen, the details of his vast industrial enterprises, and the extent of his mining, shipping and newspaper holdings were never left very much in doubt.

In addition to owning outright a score or more of the largest hotels in Berlin, Hamburg and Bremen, Stinnes shared control of the iron and coal industry of Germany with his friend Augus Thyssen and a few others, and occupied a dominating position in the entire inland navigation of that country. He also directed several big ocean shipping concerns, owned most of the potash deposits of Central Europe, and in 1920 was reported to have purchased 60 newspapers as well as several paper mills and pulp factories.

Coolidge Steps In To Prevent Wholesale Raid On Privacy In Business

Washington, April 11 (INS.)—President Coolidge today came to the defense of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, whose private business affairs are being investigated by a Senate committee.

In a special message to the Senate, the President raised strenuous objections to the efforts of the committee to obtain from the Treasury Department the secret records of tax cases of companies in which Mellon is interested.

Transmitting a letter from Mellon and a letter from the Senate committe to Mellon the President declared it was "incredible that the Senate of the United States would knowingly approve the past and proposed conduct of one of its committees, which this letter reveals."

The committee to which the President referred, is that investigating the bureau of internal revenue. The leader in the probes is Senator Couzens, Republican of Michigan, while Senator James E Watson, Republican of Indiana, the committee chairman, already has introduced a resolution in the Senate proposing that the committee be dissolved so that the investigation will come to an immediate end.

Miss Mary Shade is home from Indiana Normal to spend Easter with her parents.

'HY' AND 'OH'I' ARE PROMINENT TOPICS IN POLITICAL GAB

Johnson Will Continue to Fight the "Enemy"; Coolidge Manager Not So Sure of Ohio.

DAUGH'TY FACTOR

By H. K. REYNOLDS
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.

Washington, April 11.—Simultaneously with the announcement by Senator Hiram Johnson that he would continue his fight to "rid the Republican party of corrupt and reactionary control," leaders of President Coolidge's pre-contention campaign here receied word from Ohio that all was not well in that State with the primaries scheduled for April 29.

From Hoke Donithen, the Coolidge campaign manager in Ohio, came a hurry up call for speakers and the intimation that the President might lose the Ohio delegates because of the unfaorable reaction among friends of the late President Harding and former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty to the "keynote" speech of Senator George Wharton Pepper in Portland, Maine.

Shortly after Donithen's message reached Senators Willis and Fess of Ohio at the Capitol, Daugherty left here for Washington Court House, Ohio, ostensibly to visit relatives. He is understood to have been informed of the Ohio situation by friends here and to be prepared to lend a hand to Donithen during the next two weeks.

The former Attorney General is himself a candidaet for delegate from Ohio to the Republican convention, his name having been approved by President Coolidge as one of the administration's slate.

The Senators who received the Donithen appeal decided today that more harm than good would be done by sending speakers into Ohio in an effort to off-set the Pepper influence. They explained that such tactics would be an admission that they were scared, and they do not want that impression to get to the people.

They are not in accord with Donithen's pessimism, feeling that between Johnson and Coolidge, Ohio Republicans will support the President in the primary.

The broadside which Senator Johnson fired at the Coolidge Administration today was the result of reports during the past two days that he contemplated withdrawing from further active participation in the campaign for the Presidential nomination.

In his formal statement, Johnson ignored these reports entirely, but declared that he was not quitting what he had been "attempting to do politically," this is, to use his own words, "to revitalize and regenerate" the Republican party by smashing the "unholy alliance between crooked big business and crookd politics."

Whether or not this means that the California Senator is to continue as an active presidential candidate remains a matter of speculation in Washington today, but it indicates that he would be heard from during the ensuing primary campaigns and that his name would go before the Cleveland convention.

Flyers Reached Sitka, Alaska, Without Any Difficulty Yesterday

Sitka, Alaska, April 10.—The four United States army airplanes, flying around the world, which arrived here at 12:45 p. m. today, from Prince Rupert, British Columbia, were to remain here at least for the night, before resuming their westward journey.

The planes flew the 300 miles from Prince Rupert, British Columbia, in four hours and 21 minutes. The time here is an hour later than at Prince Rupert. The next stop is to be Cordova, Alaska, 47 miles northeast of here.

The landing today was without incident and the weather good.

WOMAN'S CLUB DIAGNOSES ILLS OF THIS CITY

The regular meeting of the Clearfield Woman's Club was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. D. W. Speck on West Market street. Seventy members responded to the roll call.

During the evening the crying needs of the community were discussed at length and it was finally unanimously decided that the things most needed in our town at this time were a little more civic pride, wider and cleaner streets, the elimination of garbage and rubbish dumping on the river banks through the town and the same beautified, a public library, more paved streets, especially West Third and Gulich avenues, cleaner bridges, a Y. W. C. A. and elimination of "burning flue" or other false fire alarms, a community building, more lights on our streets.

To help accomplish all the above the women of the town are advised to pay their taxes and go and vote for what they want and what should be done.

The meeting also went strong on record against a carnival at the Clearfield county fair.

The program consisted of the reading by Mrs. A. Wright Bigler of a paper that was delivered by a Mrs. Mirror at the recent D. A. R. convention in Washington, D. C., and a recital by Mrs. Harry Boulton entitled "Mr Dooley and the New Woman."

Isasmuch as eleven State Federations, among them Pennsylvania, have passed upon resolutions on inernational relations and the World Court ;the following resolution was presented and unanimously passedby the Club.

"Resolved, that as voters and women associated in organization work, we ought to let our government representatives know, that we expect them to see that the United States takes her proper part in the settlement of international problems, and entrance into the World Court."

After the business meeting a social half hour was spent and delicious refreshients were served.

THEY'RE MAD AT EACH OTHER

Columbus, Ohio, April 11. (INS.)—Former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty and Senator Burton K. Wheeler parted company here this forenoon without having spoken a word to each other although they were in the same car on a train which left Washington, D. C., last night. The train arrived here shortly after 10 o'clock.

Daugherty stopped off here for a brief visit. Senators Wheeler and Smith W. Brookhart and Washington newspapermen immediately started in autos for Washington Courthouse.

CURWENSVILLE AUTO COMES TO GRIEF ON A CITY FIRE PLUG

An auto party from Curwensville, came to grief at the corner of West Market street and Turnpike avenue last evening about 8:30 o'clock, their machine smashing head-on into the fire plug at the corner putting the plug out of business and badly wrecking the car, a brand new Overland.

There was a man and three women in the car and the accident was due entirely to the unfamiliarity of the driver with the situation at this point. Both Turnpike and Gulich avenues and Weaver street start off at an angle from West Market street at this point with the result that West Market street widens considerably by reason of this junction and a driver not familiar with turn into Turnpike avenue will generally run up to the west side of that street before attempting to swing into his coure. That appeared to be the case last evening. The driver of the Overland ran pretty well up West Market and then attempted by a quick turn to get into Turnpike avenue, where he wished to go. He was too far over to make the switch successfullf and banged into the fire plug. The force of the collision snapped the plug off two feet below the ground, while the windshield of the Overland was smashed to pieces and the front of the car badly damaged.

The occupants fortunately escaped serious injury, although one woman had her face cut by fragments of the broken windshield. The driver of the car is said to have been a man named Palmer.

Mrs Leroy Henry and little son Leroy, Jr., having spent the past two months visiting Mrs. Henry's parents Mr. and Mrs.J. M. McCloskey at Pottersdale, came to Clearfield Wednesday and are visiting Mrs. Henry's aunt, Mrs. Lola Merry on Weaver street. Mr. Henry is manager of the McCrory stores inSpringfield, Ohio. Mrs. Henry expects to join her husband in their new home on Monday. They formerly lived in Butler.

BILLOWY GOWNS OF ORGANDIE AND CHIFFON IS SPRING FASHION DECREE; YES, SKIRTS WILL BE HIGH AGAIN

New York, April 11 (INS.)—Women will wear billowy gowns of organdie and chiffon this summer, and skirts will clear the ground again ten inches, according to advance styles on display at the fashion show here today.

And some of the very flouncy ones are diaphanous too. They are of chiffon and laces, which seem to have completely crowded out the plainer materials.

But the shows most outsanding feature is the comeback of the short skirt.

Confirmation of the rumor from Paris that they "were creeping kneeward" were worn by models at the show who were attired in modest gowns that permitted a fleeting glimpse of ivory white epidermis just north of where she starts to "roll" 'em.

The show displays interesting combinations of the older modes with the new. Large picture hats top off dainty frocks of delicate hue and either match them or are effective in contrasting shades.

Flaming Torch Bearers Approaching Clearfield With Emblem Of "Light"

The flaming torch, escorted by 20 members of the Juniata Hi-Y Club, is on its way here and will arrive some time around 8:45 tonight. The boys will come down into Clearfield from the East End and along North Second street to the Y. M. C. A. building, where the torch will remain over night. Two boys will take care of the torch at a time, carrying it in relays of two miles. The people of Clearfield are invited to line up along Second street to the Y. M. C A.building, to the centre of the city, one of the boys carrying the flaming torch overhead.

The trip is figured to take not over eight hours from Juniata to Clearfield. The Pennsylvania Railroad will co-operate with the expedition; station agents along the route will telephone the Y. M. C. A. as the boys pass thru the different towns, and the front bulletin board of the "Y" will tell how far the boys have advanced from time to time.

The Hi-Y torch in construction is very much like the faces of old Rome minus the axe. The torch is about 18 inches high, made of cherry and black walnut wood. A frosted glass in the shape of a flare, in which an electric bulb is kept burning gives a very flame-like illumination.

The idea of the torch is one of the developments of an older boys' conference held at Sewickley in March, 1923. The idea involved is told in a letter written by Lawrence B. Avison, secretary of the Sewickley association, which is as follows:

"A small group of fellows from each town came to Sewickley and there found new light as they listened to the burning message of strong men of God. These fellows came not merely to get light for themselves, but as representatives for all the boys of their home towns, who too need light if they are to grow into the measure of manhood. The torch merely typifies the fact that the light of Christ which can glow out through fellows in what we sometimes call the "Jesus' way of living," must be carried by one fellow to another, or it will never get there."

To help express this, there is enclosed within the torch two messages which are to be read to every group to which the torch is presented. One is from Dr. John R. Mott, general secretary for North America, and the other from Arthur N. Cotton, International Boys' Work Secretary.

The newly organized Juniata Hi-Y Club with a limited membership of 20 had a great week with the torch. On last Sunday the 20 members of the club attended the different churches of Juniata borough and presented the torch to over 1400 persons, almost one-fourth of the population; also to the members of the Juniata High School.

Young men, older boys and citizens of Clearfield are cordially invited to attend the brief ceremony that will mark the arrival with the torch and hear the message at nine o'clock tonight. The local High School Amici Club members Kenneth Davis, president, will have charge of the reception and entertain the visitors over night.

Mrs. Theodore Getz, of Daisy street, was given a real birthday surprise party at her home on Daisy street, Monday evening last. A party had been tendered Mrs. Getz during the day and she was hardly expecting another, but when she arrived home from church in the evening and found the house filled with her friends there was nothing left to do but join in the festivities, which she did gladly. An enjoyable evening was the result.

NEW INDUSTRY IS PRODUCING NEEDED RETAIL NECESSITY

Sales Cabinet For the Selling of Ice Cream In Sanitary Packages Is a Local Product.

HAVE A FINE PLANT

One of Clearfield's very newest industries and one which has come among us quietly, efficiently and without much noise or public notice, is the Gearhart Sales Cabinet Company which recently purchased the Clearfield Machine Shops foundry building on East Pine street and equipped same completely for the manufacture of the Gearhart Sales Cabinet, and now has a crew of competent workmen employed in putting out this cabinet, which has already met with great favor wherever shown.

The Gearhart Sales Cabinet fills a long-existing need and will revolutionize the retail handling of ice cream. It not only does away with the old-time, laborious, wasteful and unsanitary dipping of ice cream from the freezer or packer, but it makes possible the carrying of no less than six flavors by the retailers, absolutely prevents waste, guarantees a clean, sanitary package and reduces the labor incident to the keeping of the stock of ice cream to a minimum. With this cabinet a supply of packages is ready for the trade at all times, the only labor connected with its production to the customer is the half turn of a small crank at the door of the cabinet.

Dipping out ice cream the old fashioned way is not popular with the consumer. He realizes that the handling of dippers is unsanitary; he knows the unsatisfactory results in careless re-packing; he is never sure that his cream will not taste of salt or other objectionable outside flavors. He takes to the package naturally because he knows it is to his benefit and for his protection, while he is guaranteed full measure in each package.

The Gearhart people have a most complete plant on East Pine street and are turning out a large number of their cabinets daily. The main building, which is of brick and steel construction, is 60x160 feet in size, with an L 25x40 feet. The main building is used in manufacturing the cabinet complete in every particular, while the L houses painting and finishing room.

The Gearhart sales cabinet is a refrigerator built in attractive cylinder form of sheet metal, insulated with inch cork board and operated on the vacuum system. There are six revolving, moisture-proof compartments, each one packed with ice cream cartons, in quart, pint and half-pint sizes. Through the device at the side of the cabinet, the proper compartment is brought to the front of the cabinet and a carton of the desired ice cream is taken out at the door provided.

The cabinet is easily replenished. The cartons are put in at the top and removed through the door at the bottom. There is always a "cold package" available.

It makes possible the satisfactory handling of sealed package ice cream.

It keeps packaged ice cream in perfect condition and eliminates the danger of it being contaminated from was said to possess the largest personal fortune in Germany. She paid taxes on property worth nearly 300,000,000 gold marks. At that time Stinnes fortune was estimated at 30,000,000 marks, which, according to competent calculations, increased during the year and the revolution to more than 1,000,000,000 marks.

Although Stinnes proved himself to be perhaps the greatest industrial organizer Germany ever produced, he was never graduated, so to speak, from the working class. He had the appearance and bearing of a worker, and could go about in the clothes of a foreman or a miner without attracting attention. He was once described as like a piece of coal wandering about among his own coal mine

Politically Stinnes was an idol of the German People's Party, formerly the National Liberals, which he was said to have financed after the revolution. During the Inter-Allied discussions on the German indemnity at Spa in the summer of 1920 Stinnes' defiant stand as a National Liberal was blamed for the failure to come to immediate terms. It was at this conference, when taken to task for his arrogant attitude, that he electrified the assembly with the statement:

"I have not come here for the purpose of being polite."

In the years that followed, however he became more pacific, and urged the German people to adopt a policy for work and production, which he declared was the only salvation for the German nation

The most human side of Stinnes seemed to be domestic. He would spend hours in the company of his children fashioning new toys for them and mending old ones, or searching the stores of Muelheim for novelties. When residing in Berlin, Stinnes and his little girl would go in the afternoon to the zoo, and there they said the circulating magnate would speak with a note of sadness and tell over and over again of the poor lion that had to be killed during the war because food was so scarce

His habits were modest, although he owned the hotel in which he lived and a country place outside Berlin was a simple cottage with a little garden He bought no pictures or statues for they were worthless, so he said.

Hugo Stinnes had two favorite boasts One was that he could buy anyone in Central Europe "without missing the money" and the other that he had never seen the former German Emperor, and wouldn't have turned his head to look at him on the street

Despite the adverse decision of the Lancaster county court in an election contest at Lemoyne, the absent voters' law passed by the 1923 Legislature, will be valid at the primary, April 22. Voters unavoidably absent from their districts at the primary may vote by mail if they obtain their ballots in time and mail them.

The Lancaster decision affects only the election contest in which it was rendered, in the opinion of state authorities. The decision has been appealed and will be argued before the State Supreme Court in May—after the primary. A decision will probably be handed down before the November election; but for the primary the effect will be the same as if the Lancaster court had never declared against the law in the particular case before it.

The act providing for absent voting is administered entirely by the county commissioners, who provide the ballot forms and other materials to put the act into effect. An elector who contemplates being away from home on the day of the primary and desires to cast his or her ballot is required to make application to the county commissioners not less than three days before the primary. The commissioners will forward the necessary blank forms, affidavits and ballot with full instructions regarding procedure in forwarding the ballot and voting.

The importance of the mailed ballots was shown in the November election last year, when throughout the state a number of close elections were decided by the ballots which were sent by mail. This example, incidentally refutes the oft-heard remark that one vote, more or less, makes no difference, for several of the contests decided by the absent voters were decided by a margin of a single vote.

Ten years in the penitentiary is a long time. Yet a Scranton Italian grinned all over his face when the Lackawanna county sheriff's counsel directed that the prisoner should be locked up for the ten year period. The prisoner, Pasquale Spallone, killed three men about two years ago and was tried twice for the crime. The first trial resulted in a second degree verdict. Spallone was not satisfied with this and managed to secure a new trial. This time he got first degree and a sentence to the electric chair. He was also given ten years in the penitentiary and as he couldn't serve the ten years if he was electrocuted first, they are going to make him take the ten and electrocute him in 1934, if he lives that long.

attempt by the committee to obtain possession of the bank records. Previously M. S. Daugherty, President of the bank and a brother of the former Attorney General, refused to permit a special accountant, employed by the committee, to review the books. There were indications today that Daugherty would refuse the committee's request although it is made in person by Brookhart and Wheeler.

The committee also decided to interview a number of Washington court house citizens on the visits made there by the late Jess W. Smith, former chum of the Attorney General, and by Harry M. Daugherty himself. Wheeler also sought further information on the mysterious visits paid by Daugehtry and Smith to the "log cabin" located near Washington court house, where it is charged several deals were arranged.

In event the committee's request for an inspection of the bank's records is refused, the committee has indicated it ill recommend to the senate that Mel Daugherty be cited for contempt.

If this isd one, the case undoubtedly will be projected into the nation's highest court.

LET US HAVE A BIGGER CITY

In the last proceedings of borough council we noticed many tracts of land are being taken into the borough of Clearfield. This is a good omen. Clearfield has been losing in many ways by not enlarging its borough boundaries. Of course, the addition or annexation of additional territory rests with the owners of the land and properties and the people or officers of the borough can do nothing to encourage their coming in except to have such a good government that they will want to come in. There is little, if anything, wrong with our borough government. Let the invitation be extended.

Particularly should the people of the Plymptonville section desire to become a part of the city. They have terrible street conditions—schools are even worse.

Let the glad hand be extended to all and in a year or two Clearfield will be a city of over ten thousand people, which will enable it to take its rightful place among the cities of the commonwealth and enjoy all the advantages that will accrue.

The time is coming when all the districts surrounding Clearfield will be parts of the city. This is absolutely inevitable. According to those who have looked into the matter taxes are higher in the city now, as a rule, than they are outside. And the advantages are far superior to any possible defects. Besides economy is always more powerful than private inclination.

It has been suggested that this matter of annexation might well be submitted to the voters of the borough as well as of the districts affected at the general election next November. It might be well to secure an expression of opinion in the several districts interested at this time as it can be done without additional expense to the people concerned.

HE REVERED HIS GOD

In this column we have not yet paid our tribute to James A. Gleason. We have noted the testimony of friends and associates as to his geniality, his charity, his optimism, his cheerfulness, his loyalty to friend, his personality.

Great as are these things there was one thing near and dear to his heart which is even greater than relationship with God. He revered his God. Not alone by the performance of those rites prescribed by his church but in his daily life did Jim Gleason revere his God. Prominent in the extension work of the Holy Name Society he condemned profanity at every turn and especially when that profanity was in the use of the name of the Deity.

He once told the writer that he would rather be struck in the face than hear the name of God or the Saviour taken in vain.

In this easy day of loose tongues and promiscuous cursing we can ill afford to lose a Jim Gleason or any other man who stands for reverence of the name of the Maker.

SERVICE AND KIND WORDS

By FLORENCE DAVIES

A Pullman porter talks to a college class. He's part of the economic scheme of things in this country, and so he takes his place on the platform along with railroad presidents and manufacturers. Fair enough. Life is all of a piece.

But what does he tell that class, this fellow who sees life behind the scenes, who sees the traveling public from the porter's side, not the passengers?

His story of the public from the service side is rather a happy one. He makes a great discovery. People aren'tso bad, he says. They are a good lot. There aren't so many cranks and crooks as we are sometimes led to suppose. Even rich folks are kind, sometimes. That's cheering. "John D.? Why he's just a nice old man. Mr. Morgan was like anybody else—I gave them the best service I could."

That's the answer isn't it. Most of us want to be civil when we get the chance. And the secret of this porter's success as a porter seems to be that he gave his riding public a chance to be their best, by using a very simple little formula.

"Service and kind words" was his slogan. That's what's needed, he says Not a bad slogan for a porter, is it? Not a bad slogan, either, for a corporation or a president. Not even a bad slogan for home folks.

Of course, John Baptist Ford, for such was the porter's name, has just been finding out an old truth, and that is that you get about what you give in life.

He believes in service and kind words and he got good tips and kind words back.

And in doing it he found that at heart people like kindness and honestly want to be kind.

Chips on shoulders are bound to be knocked off. Life is a jostling business, where delicately balanced chips of resentment and arrogance are bound to be rudly jostled. The people who always carry them on their shoulders will tell you that the world is full of grouches. But John Baptist Ford didn't find it so.

He started out with out a chip on his shoulder, willing to believe in his traveling public, and he found them just as he wanted to find them, universally friendly and generous. It was just the side of the public that John Baptist Ford got back in return for the things he gave them—service and kind words.

It might work in any business.

Mrs. Sarah A England, mother of Mrs. I. W. Spencer, died at the Spencer home, Ridge avenue, Thursday morning at the hour of half past one, aged 77 years. The aged lady met with an accident by a fall tripping on a carpet on April 1st and sustained a fractured hip, the effects from which she could not recover physically and gradually grew weaker until the end. Her maiden name was Sarah A. Hottorf and was married in Ohio to John England, who died some ten or eleven years ago. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. L. W. Spencer with whom she made her home for the past ten years. During most of her long and useful life she was a member of the Methodist [illegible]. A short religious service was held over the deceased at the [illegible] home at four o'clock Thursday afternoon by Rev. Adams, and at six o'clock the body accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Spencer, started on a journey to LeRoy, Ohio, the old home where the regular service will be held. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer have the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

The funeral procession bearing the body of Mrs. Chas. S. Shade, who died at Erie Hall a few days ago, arrived in Curwensville about four o'clock yesterday afternoon and proceeded to Oak Hill cemetery for interment of the body.

Mrs. R. K. Way went to Grampian to visit her aunt, Mrs. Freeman, who has been reported quite ill.

Paper hanging artists are about as scarce in Curwensville as quills found on a rabbit tail in hunting season. More than half a hundred good house wives are wanting that sort of work done and are unable to secure that line of mechanics to do it. When a woman is determined to do spring housecleaning and all room papering the job there will be no stopping her, even if she has to turn paper hanger herself and draft hubby into service also.

Thursday night a week ago was a gala night at the Strand Theatre here on account of Manager Francis Thompson presenting the Susquehanna Glee Club in one of their popular entertainments. When it came time for this talented aggregation of musicians to perform, all seats and standing room in the theatre were filled it being one of the largest audiences ever in the Strand.

The program started with dainty little Miss Eloise Rutter singing "That a Lot of Bunk". This is a great comedy hit, and as rendered by Miss Rutter proved one of the most delightful songs that young lady has ever rendered here. A tuneful encore was also rendered. Mrs. Richard Rutter, the little girl's talented mother played her piano accompaniment as usual.

The next number on the program was a whistling solo by Miss Helen Rupert. Miss Rupert is an expert fancy whistler and her renditions are always very popular. Her offering was met with great applause and nothing would satisfy the audience but an encore which was graciously rendered. Mr. Fred Isenberg skillfully played Miss Rupert's accompaniment.

The next number on the program was one which the audience had been anxiously awaiting, for it was the appearance of The Susquehanna Quartette. When Mr. Leon Test, their manager, announced them, he was met with great applause. Their first number was a banjo-like rendition of "Turkey in the Straw". This effort brought forth round after round of applause, the solo part by Mr. Test being especially enjoyed. The next number, "The One I Love Belongs to Somebody Else" was one of the big hits of the evening and combined a number of novelties. The solo part was carried by Max Smith, in a tuneful, captivating manner, while the chorus by all in which a unique arrangement of the words was sang also proved a big hit. The piano accompaniment for these numbers was artistically and masterfully rendered by Miss Margaret Rhodes, who has been with the boys from the start.

The concluding number on the program for which Miss. Rutter played was the singing of "I Ain't Gonna Rain No More" by Miss Eloise Rutter. The entire company joined in the chorus of this song and brought the entertainment to a delightful and snappy close.

The Susquehanna Glee Club was started by Mr. Leon Test, and at first consised of a quartette only, viz: Mr. Tes, Max Smith, Louie Feloni and Clifford Kephart and Miss Rhodes as pianist. Now it has become affiliated with Miss Eloise Rutter and Miss Helen Rupert, and their pianists and Leon Test is the manager. Besides the beautiful costumes worn by the girls the men of the quartette were attractively garbed with white shirts and trousers and black ties, while tango sashes were worn around their waist.

The next public appearance of this aggregation will be at the Opera House on next Thursday night, and will undoubtedly be greeted with another packed house. This organization is one of the biggest drawing cards in Curwensville at present, and is open for engagement at theatres receptions, banquets, parties and so on. Mr. Test, the manager will be glad to arrange matters with anyone desiring their services.

Mrs. Walter Fullington, with Mrs. Samuel Smith and Mrs. Willia d Brown of Curwensville attended the Pocohontas banquet at DuBois Wednesday evening, returning home yesterday.

Inver.

Inver is a prefix in the Gaelic language and it means a confluence of rivers, the place where two rivers come together. The prefix is used in Scotland, particularly in the north as an element of place names, as in the name Inverness. The River Ness here joins the arm of the sea known as Moray firth. Inverness is the confluence or junction of the River Ness.

The harpist was heaving and snorting with indignation. "Look at this story!" he cried, handing us a copy of the Fourth Estate. The story concerned the campaign for 2½ cent pieces. HE'S NO FLIVVER, EITHER

Old Doc Stork made a call at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Wallace on Cherry street, yesterday afternoon. Before leaving for home he left with them a fine big lusty-lunged son and Gerry says that while he may be mixed up in the business of polluting Clearfield county roads with Fords, he wants everybody to know that the first boy in his family is no flivver—he's a real boy. However, on our attempt to pin him down as to what they were going to call the young man Gerry was forced to admit that Henry was being seriously considered, at that.

Wishes That Come True.

Good wishes have a way of realizing themselves. They have a potency almost magical, and the girl who is always wishing the best for other friends finds her hopes realized for herself, as though kindly wishes were a sort of gracious boomerang, coming back to the heart that sent it out. Just wishing others joy, if the wish is from the heart, helps to add something to the happiness of the world.

When Man Is Disappointed

When the average man does a good deed on the sly he is apt to feel put out if his acquaintances fail to get next.

A Banquet That Was Almost A Tragedy

"Three years ago at a banquet I was stricken with acute indigestion. Two doctors worked over me for an hour before I came to. I had had severe colic attacks before, but nothing like that. No doctors or medicine gave me permanent help until a friend, who was at the banquet, advised me to take a course of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which I did with wonderful results." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Importance of Yield to Crop Production Costs

Investigators of the Cornell (N. Y.) experiment station have published the results of their efforts to obtain information on the production and costs of the principal canning crops grown in that state. The report contains much of interest regarding peas. "The cost per ton of peas," writes L. J. Norton, "is very closely related to the yield per acre." Thus on 101 farms where yields averaged 2,138 pounds per acre, the return was $30 per acre more than on 81 farms averaging 1,492 pounds. Furthermore, on 80 farms averaging 2,988 pounds per acre, the increased return advanced to $52 per acre. These increased returns were produced at an average total cost of $2 per acre. The three factors that seemingly had the most to do with increasing the rate of yields, were fertilizer, manure and lime. It was found that the yield per acre advanced almost exactly in the same order as did the amounts of fertilizer and manure used, particularly the former.

PURE BRED LIVE STOCK FIGURES SHOW CONSIDERABLE VARIATION

Pure Bred Herefords Are Gaining in Popularity

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Average prices of pure bred Shorthorn and Hereford cattle for the first six months of 1923 were somewhat lower than in 1922, whereas the Red Polled and Aberdeen Angus were slightly higher, according to a survey recently completed by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Prices of pure bred dairy cattle show considerable variation, being practically steady for Holstein and Brown Swiss, higher for Jerseys, and lower for Ayrshire and Guernseys. The pure bred draft horse market showed little activity. Average sale price of pure bred sheep also showed variations, the Dorset, Hampshire, and Shropshire breeds being about steady, with Lincoln, Oxford and Rambouillet showing declines, and Southdown, Romney, Cheviot and Cotswold showing advances.

Pure Bred Beef Cattle.

Reports were made on 9,534 pure bred beef cattle. In most instances the animals sold at auction brought more than those sold privately, but the bulk of each breed was sold at private sale. The survey shows that a number of pure bred bulls were sold at a lower price than they might have brought had they been marketed as steers at the same weight. A number of breeders reported that they were not offering anything for sale but were buying all the outstanding individuals in their vicinity.

Average prices of ... and both sexes for both 1922 and the first half of 1923 are shown in the following table:

	No. Sold		Av Prices
	1922	1923	1922	1923
Aberdeen Ai	1,442	1 226	$104	$110
Hereford (1 breed)	928	4,750	128	114
Hereford (Polled)	111	350	129	118
Red Polled	434	289	83	88
Shorthorn	4 021	2 919	129	111

The highest prices reported were: Aberdeen Angus bull $1,070, female $1,550; Hereford bull $2,500, female $1,050; Polled Hereford bull $600, female $255, Red Polled bull $305, female $1,050, Shorthorn bull $2,000, female $1,500. A small number of each breed brought $250 or more. The number selling for less than $50 were Aberdeen Angus 220, Hereford 587, Polled Hereford 38, Red Polled 52 and Shorthorn 380.

Pure Bred Dairy Cattle.

Of 6,612 dairy cattle sold, 1,680 brought over $250 each, and 608 sold for less than $50. Nearly two thirds of the animals reported sold ranged from $50 to $250 each.

Average prices of all ages and both sexes were as follows:

	No Sold		Av Price
	1922	1923	1922	1923
Ayrshire	509	271	$152	$120
Guernsey	2,160	1,753	273	224
Holstein	2 797	3,406	187	188
Jersey	1 975	972	187	228
Brown Swiss	157	210	124	121

The highest prices received by breeds were: Ayrshire bull $300, female $1,700; Brown Swiss bull $300 female $350; Guernsey bull $7,500, female $7,500; Holstein bull $2,000, female $2,850; Jersey bull $2,500, female $6,000. For all breeds animals sold at auction averaged higher in prices than those sold privately, the difference ranging from $82 to $265 per animal. More than twice as many animals were sold at private sale as at auction.

Pure Bred Draft Horses.

Of 233 pure bred draft horses sold, 188 brought above $150 each. More than half the breeders reporting said they had not sold an animal during the period of January 1 to July 1, 1923.

	Av Price
	1923
Belgian	$360
Clydesdale	181
Percheron	238
Shire	124

Top prices received were: Belgian stallion $2,400, mare $800; Clydesdale stallion $700, mare $550; Percheron stallion $2,100, mare $1,000; Shire stallion $500, mare $225. The demand was largely for mares and stallions over two years old. The survey also whole indicates that the horse-breeding business has been greatly curtailed due to lack of demand, the department says.

Pure Bred Sheep.

Of 8,498 pure bred sheep reported sold only 81 brought $150 or more, whereas 6,192 sold for $25 or less.

The number and average prices of pure bred sheep by breeds for the first half of 1923 compared with the entire year 1922, were as follows:

	No Sold		Av Price

Highest prices by breeds were: Cheviot male $100, female $100; Cotswold male $200, female $100; Dorset male [illegible], female $25; Oxford male $100, female $80; Rambouillet male $[illegible], female $65, Romney male $75, female $40; Shropshire male $125, female $75, Southdown male $100, female $50; Hampshire male $250, female $80; Lincoln male $40, female $25.

Most Economical Ration Supplies Needed Protein

Farmers who are feeding calves and expect to market them in late spring or early summer should not overlook the fact that the most economical ration that can be fed is the one that supplies a liberal portion of protein. Corn other grains, and most roughages are deficient in protein. The cheapest source of protein for cattle is cottonseed cake or meal. If no alfalfa or clover is fed, two pounds per head per day should be fed. If limited amounts of alfalfa or clover hay are available, one pound per head per day will be sufficient, if alfalfa is the only roughage fed, no cottonseed cake or meal will be necessary.

Bacteria Required for Inoculating Bean Soil

Soil from an alfalfa field cannot be used to inoculate ground for beans. Bacteria which work on the beans are different from those which work on the roots of alfalfa. There is perhaps as much difference between the two as there would be between a horse and cows, to make a simple illustration. There are several classes of these bacteria which work on the roots of the legumes. All the different kinds of clover have much the same bacteria. The alfalfa bacteria are somewhat different, and also those of the bean or the cow pea. All these different bacteria have been separated and can be bought, safely packed in bottles so that they can be used without great trouble.

Rotation Is Big Help

A definite rotation of crops is a farmer's most helpful friend. Such a system lowers cost per bushel or ton, distributes labor economically, incorporates humus in the soil, controls weed growth and reduces risk from growing one crop.

POULTRY

Ipecac Most Successful Remedy for Blackhead

Ipecac is the remedy being used out successfully for blackhead, though if the disease is far advanced there is little or nothing that can be done for it

To use ipecac as a cure, put ten drops of the fluid extract of ipecac in the mouth of the sick birds three times a day for three days, then once a day for the same time.

As a preventive use a teaspoonful of the powdered ipecac on enough wet mash for 50 birds. Feed twice a week, commencing when the poults are two weeks old and continue until three months old, then give once every ten days. The amount need not be given at one feed, but spread among the feeds for the day.

In addition to the ipecac, give all the buttermilk they will drink.

Sick turkeys are always preyed upon by lice and mites and special care should be taken to keep the young and old birds free from these pests.

Isolate sick turkeys since the disease is carried through the droppings.

Green food in the form of carrot tops onion tops or lettuce should constitute at least one-half of the ration.

The brood coops and house should be kept clean and grit and charcoal must be where they can get it. Old plaster is especially liked by turkeys and they seem to thrive on it.

Both chickens and turkeys thrive better if they are kept apart.

Winter Is Poor Time to Cull the Poultry Flock

Mrs. Bess laid 14 eggs in ten days before culling and, after culling, the 4 hens left laid 138 eggs in ten days. This report came from a Lincoln county (Colorado) farm.

This isn't the whole story, however. The culling was done in January. We may say that had the 26 culls been kept they would have started laying at about the first of February and would have probably more than paid for their keep until the following June 1 first.

As a general rule a complete culling should not be made in the winter or spring because even the culls will pay their keep from January until July 1.

Culling times necessary to cull in the fall after to make more room for pullets when the flock must be confined. That was undoubtedly the case in Lincoln county and probably part of the increase of egg production was due to the fact that the hens left had more room and more food.

Are there difficulties in winter culling that it is very hard to tell which are the culls when the whole flock is together. Many pullets that appeared to be a little out of condition at the time of the culling have been sold when they certainly should have been left in the flock.—P. M. Jamison Extension Poultry Specialist Colorado Agricultural College.

Use Bands to Mark Best Laying Fowls in Flock

According to N E Chapman, poultry specialist with the agricultural extension division of the Minnesota state university the first of February is a good time to band the best pullets or the birds that have the early laying and high production marks.

"These are the birds" says Mr. Chapman "to breed for next year. A system the poultryman employs which makes possible to determine the egg producers of his flock that he can put them in the breeding pen. Bands made of celluloid can be secured from poultry supply firms.

A pullet that has a white beak on February 1 has made a fair record in egg production and deserves a blue band. Such fowls will generally have long keels loose wide pelvic on the keel wide back and a space of three fingers between the end of the breast bone and the end of the breast bone or keel.

POULTRY NOTES

The necessity of cooling hatching eggs is a disputed point.

When the ducks are hatched make them comfortable but do not feed for 24 to 48 hours.

A bird with closely worn toenails is considered a better layer than one with long nails.

A pullet is a female bird less than a year old, while a cockerel is a male bird less than a year old.

Hens that show the least broodiness are better layers than those that are broody a large part of the time.

A fowl must carry a little fat in order to be in a laying condition. A poor or lean hen can never be a laying hen.

Diseases of Poultry, farmers' bulletin 1337, may be had by writing the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington.

Hens that molt late and quickly are the best layers. By this is meant that hens molting during the latter part of September, October and November are better layers than those molting earlier.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Flanagan of Hillsdale, are rejoicing over the recent arrival of a 7½ lb son, which was born to them at the Clearfield hospital.

Keeps packages clean and dry—no freezing together.

Makes serving customers quick and satisfactory. Sells perfectly filled packages, thus eliminating shrinkage.

The sales cabinet has a capacity of 24 gallons and occupies a floor space of only 40 inches. It is substantially built and can be very attractively painted.

The ice cream manufacturer fills the cartons and controls the cabinet.

Richard Cook, the Market street grocer, is the first Clearfield retailer to install one of the Gearhart sales cabinets and both he and his customers are very much pleased with its operation.

The Gearhart sales cabinet is destined to be one of Clearfield's most famous products.

Eccentricities of Genius

Paul Verlaine, a modern poet, was a genius whose life passed in alternate stages of ecstacy and deplorable excesses. In 1870 he led the traditional bohemian life in Paris, then disappeared eleven years. In 1881 he appeared the public eye as a quasi-Catholic his "Sagesse" perhaps his best work. From this time to his death 1896 Verlaine remained, except brief intervals, among the cafe habitues quarter, drinking absinthe carousing and writing verse and ballistic articles.

Observance Of Law Is Real Need Rather Than Enforcement, Says "Cal"

Washington, April 10.—President Coolidge, in addressing a delegation of women representing the society for law enforcement from the south portico of the White House today told them that successful law enforcement depended primarily upon the measure of public sentiment for observance of the law.

"I sometimes wish," the President said, "that people would put a little more emphasis upon the observation of the law than they do upon its enforcement. It is a maxim of our institutions that government does not make the people, but the people make the government. That is why a gathering of this kind is encouraging to me."

The President, who received the committee after they had heard addresses on the subject by the two new members of his cabinet, Attorney General Stone and Secretary Wilbur, and other speakers, emphasized that the only practical course for stimulating respect for law was a ceaseless "awakening of the conscience through movements such as come from your activities and thru a determination that there shall be a new order of things."

Your "Tip" to the Thief

In a crowd the thief will often raise a cry of "watch out for pickpockets" and immediately everyone will raise his hand to the pocket in which he carries his money. The thief watches closely and thereupon is informed just where you carry your wealth. The hip pocket is said to be the most unsafe place for valuables as it is the most easily reached by the thief.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH MEETINGS

The special services which are being held in the Presbyterian Church every night except Saturday of this week and next are richly blessed of God. Rev. French McAfee of Patton will preach for the last time this evening. Let every Presbyterian show their appreciation of his work with us and come out tonight.

His sermon of last evening was on the story of the woman of Samaria and her work with the Samaritans; after she had learned of His love she went out and testified, and brought others to Christ. We as Christians must do as the woman of Samaria and testify for our Lord. Let us each one testify tonight and come to the service bringing some one else. The services next week will be in charge of Rev. Francis Shunk Downs of Tyrone. Continue to pray for an outpouring of God's spirit on these meetings, which will bring us to that season of the year which means so much to every Christian. Rev. McAfee will preached tonight on the theme "The de sciples were first called Christians at Antioch."

Everyone is cordially invited to join in all these services.

BUSEY SAYS FIVE MEN PLOTTED THE DEATH OF DANIELS

Says Clergyman, Town Official, Two Wealthy Oil Men and Planter Decreed Man's Death.

HE IS STILL MISSING

(Copyright 1924 International News Service.)

Atlanta, Ga., April 9.—A group of five desperate men, all members of the Ku Klux Klan, plotted the infamous hooded mob murders of Mer Rouge at a midnight conference in a Texas oil town in August 1922, according to the "inside story" of the crime revealed by Dr. A. C. Busey, "man of mystery" before he disappeared from the federal prison here.

As a result, the new investigation of the murder mystery was under consideration today by the Department of Justice on the basis of information turned over by international News Service.

A nationwide search was meanwhile started for Busey in the belief he might solve the tragedy which stunned the nation more than a year ago and which has since defined solution.

The Texas conference Busey claimed developed into a Ku Klux Klan uprising in Morehouse Parish a few weeks later, ending ultimately in the revolting murder of Watt Daniel, World war veteran, and the "traveling imprisonment" of his bosom friend, Thomas F. Richards, who had betrayed the former soldier to his doom.

Before he disappeared, Busey told friends the names of a clergyman, a town official, two wealthy oil men and a planter, all klansmen, who attended the Texas conference and turned "thumbs down" on Daniel's life. The death hverdict was decreed by these five men because Daniel "ran" bootleg liquor into Texas oil camps.

In his story of the plot and murder Busey charged the State of Louisiana with "planting" in Lake La Fourche two fake bodies, culled from a medical school and charity hotel in New Orleans, to be later identified as those of Daniel and Richards. The body of Daniel, he said, was still hidden in an impromptu burial ground beneath a pressing log not far from the lake.

Richards is still alive, he added, and a captive of Daniel' slayers.

The plot, launched in the Texas oil town, spread like a prairie fire, Busey said. It led to the daylight kidnaping of five parish citizen including Daniel and Richards, and culminated in the brutal murder of the war veteran. Although three score klansmen were participants in the kidnaping, it was said only a carefully chosen "murder squad" of six klansmen carried Daniel and Richards off to their final reckoning. It was Busey's claim that while this squad murdered Daniels, it banished Richards to a captivity that has lasted for twenty months.

In the "murder quad" there were three strange klansmen imported from Arkansas, a Parish official and two parish planters.

One of its members told J. L. Daniel, aged father of the veteran who was kidnapped and whipped on that fateful August night that "one of these men may come back; the other you will never see again."

In the original plot, Busey said, Richards' captivity was to have ended when "things died down" but the unexpected nation wide publicity and the finding of the bodies in Lake La Fourche caused his captors to continue their bondage lest he betray them to the toils of justice.

Whether truth or fiction, Busey at least was the first klansmen in the whole nation to boast that he knew the "inside story" of the Mer Rouge murders. His constant communication with high klansmen, his frequent conference with Imperial Klan officials and his officials of intimate details of the crime indicated there was some truth to his story. If the countrywide search for him now being conducted by the Department of Justice is successful, America may at last learn the truth of the Mer Rouge murders.

The maximum power is 10,000 diameters; that is to say, the moon would appear as if brought within 25 miles of the observer. The lens for this telescope was made at the glassworks at St. Gobain, France.

RECEPTION TO REV. W. H. AND MRS. LEITH

Special to The Clearfield Progress:

On returning from the spring meeting of Huntingdon Presbytery, held at Tyrone, Rev. W. H. and Mrs. Leith on Tuesday night were given a brilliant reception in Potts Run Co. hall by the people of the town. Mr. Leith is pastor of the Boardman Presbyterian church and stated supply at Carnwath and Maple Run Missions. Mr. James Null was chairman and after calling them to order introduced Mr. Winn, the manager of the "Peerless Trading Co. store as Master of Ceremonies. Mr. Winn made a brief but felicitous speech and thus presented Mr. Leith to the surprise. The pastor said the affair had been a total surprise to Mrs. Leith and himself. Among other things he mentioned the unanimous spirit that pervaded the whole community as well as its neighboring vicinity. In the four years of his pastorate there never was a time when such an interest had been taken in the affairs of the church, as at the present. In times of business depression like these, the church has always measured up to its privileges and was a decided means of cementing together the whole town leading out with the optimistic spirit and with the assurance that better days would soon come.

The ladies furnished an abundant supply of refreshments, consisting of sandwiches, pie, cake, candy and coffee, which was served to all. As special features the men furnished the singing of a large number of gospel hymns, and the "Italian band" of Maple Run, consisting of Mr. J. C. Phillips and his two young boys, kept up a continuous musical program with violin, flute, and guitar, which was very much appreciated. The close came at a very late hour by all standing and singing "America," and "Blessed be he Tie that Binds." Our thanks to all who took part in making the event such a pleasure and success.

Ideals of the Legion

Chairman Thomas H. McGowan of the Woburn (Mass.) school board recently expressed the ideals of the American Legion during an address made at a citizens' mass meeting held in that city.

"The American Legion offers itself as a constant reminder of self-sacrifice for the good of all. It does not ask for hero worship nor does it ask the American public for sacrifice. It asks only for encouragement in the great work it has undertaken in the care of needy comrades, in perfecting its organization into an all-inclusive entity of ex-service men, but above all to serve our country and our flag and to perpetuate the unexcelled traditions of a glorious history.

"The Legion strives to be unselfish in undertakings; it asks only for co-operation The American Legion will maintain its place in the sun."

LEGION FATHERS ADDING COUNCILS

The American Legion Fathers, an auxiliary to the veterans' body, has already enrolled a number of councils—as the local units are termed—and applications for information concerning the auxiliary have been flooding national headquarters

The first council to receive a charter from national headquarters was formed from fathers of men in Harvey post 155 of the Legion in Harvey, Ill Harvey is a suburb of Chicago Others of the first five to be established are in Malden, Mass, St Paul, Minn, Topeka, Kan, and Bellingham, Wash

The charter fee for a council is $10, and the application must be signed by ten men, either fathers of active Legionnaires, or of men who made the supreme sacrifice in the World war The organization is not permitted to have either a state or national authority and is governed by the Legion post to which attached The movement is primarily for the counseling of the Legionnaires, and assistance in carrying out the principles of the veterans' organization.

Interpretation of New York Insurance Laws

Compensation insurance rates for firms employing slightly disabled World war veterans should not be higher, according to the interpretation of state insurance laws made by Gov. A. H. Smith of New York.

The executive's ruling came in response to a protest from Department Commander E. E. Spafford of the American Legion in New York, who said that certain veterans found it difficult to obtain employment because their physical condition increased rates for workmen's insurance offered by private concerns.

According to Commander Spafford the veterans had been accepted only as extra hazardous risks, and the Legion sought clarification of the state's attitude by word from the governor

"I can state to you," wrote Governor Smith to Commander Spafford, "that the state insurance fund does not consider veterans suffering from a partial disability as extra hazardous risks and takes no action directly or indirectly, whether in premium rates or merit rating, which would in any way discourage employment of partially disabled veterans Each accident is considered on the merits of the accident alone"

Clothes.

Sir Walter Scott tells us in "Ivanhoe," "men wore one thickness of clothes, whether of wool leather or velvet. The shirt was invented but for a long time was worn only by the nobility and gentry. Then followed the waistcoats, breeches and then the trousers. The overcoat, which succeeded the medieval cotehink, was rare until the seventeenth century. The dates are not known

Says Elbow Grease Develops Lard

Delia Marshall of Sioux Falls, Minnehaha county, South Dakota, can raise just as good hogs as any farmer in the state. Better, sometimes. She made a champion of this Duroc-Jersey pig. Ask her how she did it, and she will tell you by proper feeding and plenty of elbow grease. Of course, the elbow grease merely made his coat shiny, but slick, smooth coats help a lot to catch the judges' eye.

Delia became interested in raising pigs when she joined the pig club of Minnehaha county a year ago. This year she is going to raise three pigs instead of one. The money she makes is going to be banked to help pay her way through college.

Young people the country over are making money through their efforts in the Boys' and Girls' club work. More than half of the 75,000 club members are saving money for a college education. These are the youngsters the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation hopes to aid by entering the field of rural boys' and girls' club work with a definite program of organization and leadership for achievement. A republic of boys and girls will be set up in each county and the youngsters will govern themselves. The Foundation will become the demonstrating organization agency and will aid with the finances, as well as leaders.

How Egyptians Make Fire.

The question of how the Egyptians made fire was one that often exercised archeologists. No representation of the process existed on the monuments, nor does the nation appear to have attached any religious significance to the origin of fire. The question was settled by the discovery at Kahun of a regular bow drill for making fire, together with some sticks showing the burnt holes caused by fire drilling.—National Geographic Society Bulletin.

Danger!

Oh stay! how knowest thou carriest go order about thee. Desire of that care to keep at a distance. It is a dangerous crisis when a proud heart meets with flattering lips. —John Flavel.

A Miss and a Mile.

"I came very near being the owner of a twin-six car today," said Gelatine Travers on his arrival home. "How near?" inquired Mrs. Travers without enthusiasm. "Well, my number was actually in the hat from which the winning number was drawn, and that's nearer than usual," replied her husband.—Kansas City Star.

Convertible Skates.

A Chicagoan has invented a convertible skate. Which reminds us—though it is nothing appertaining to the subject—did you ever notice how quickly a man sobers when his wife sights him? The convertible skate is not new by any manner of means.—Buffalo News.

Curwensville's Own Column

It seems that right now would be an appropriate time to commence the annual spring clean up around your place by all citizens who are interested in the town's sanitary condition and the general health of the town proper. It will only take a small portion of anyone's time to do this and have the refuse hauled to the public dumping grounds. We have a nice clean town usually but at the present time there are some ragged edges to be seen that ought not exist.

Ronald Dunsmore, who has been attending school in Philadelphia for the past year, has returned home for an Easter vacation.

The body of Miss Jane Leonard was brought in from DuBois Wednesday afternoon and interred in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery. A large concourse of relatives and friends accompanied the remains number coming from Indiana.

A birthday party was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weaver, South Walnut street, Tuesday afternoon, the event having been held for the daughter, Helen. Miss Zeitler, her teacher, and a number of the young lady's intimate friends were in attendance and partook of an excellent dinner.

Foster Sloppy, a farmer residing in Lawrence township and near the village of Glen Richey, died at his home Tuesday forenoon, aged about 54 years. He was a son of Daniel Sloppy and unmarried. Death was due to an attack of influenza and an injury to his head which resulted from a fall on the kitchen stove. His remains were taken to New Millport for burial.

Joe Fullerton received a box of goods the other day, the woodwork and construction of the box having been made in China. The corners were dovetailed together and the sides held together by wooden pegs, not a nail having been used anywhere. On the edge of the box was genuine Chinese writing; and we ought to know, because we read the inscription right off the reel, greatly to Joseph's amazement.

The capital stock for the new state bank has been increased to double the original and still there is a demand for stock. First plans called for a capital stock not to exceed $50,000. This amount was taken up so rapidly that the promoters of the bank thot it advisable to increase the first amount to $75,000, which was done and this extra subscription was readily taken up and a demand made for more. Another $25,000 was added and that has all been placed. It is not likely that any more stock will be issued for the present, but the amount may be increased after the institution becomes a fixture in commercial circles.

Mrs. Effie Turner has sold a house and parcel of ground situate on South Scofield street to Mrs. Teckla Dahl: Consideration, $1950. W. B. Thompson has also transferred by sale to Uo Faenti, two lots in Curwensville borough for a consideration of $225.

The Wilcy coal mines started operations again Wednesday after a shut down for some days. This operation will go right along now for several months or perhaps a longer time.

Mrs. Hazel Rankin of Purchase Line is spending the week with her husband, who is employed at the P. H. & L. Tannery.

Not Merely Ordinary Hunger.

My aunt, who is noted for her skill at baking cakes and cookies, is very popular with the younger members of our family. One day while my small brother, aged 4, was visiting her he mentioned that he was hungry. Upon being presented with a piece of bread and butter, he said, "Oh, thank you; I'se not that kind of hungry. I'se only cake hungry."—Exchange.

Egg-Grading Scale.

An egg-grading scale has been invented that registers the weight per dozen of an egg placed on it.

Gutenberg Bible

The earliest book known is the Gutenberg Bible. It was printed from movable metal types; the Latin Bible issued by Gutenberg at Mainz, 1452-56 A. D.; also known as the Mazarin Bible because the copy which first attracted the notice of bibliographers was first discovered in 1700 among the books of Cardinal Mazarin.

A Soundless Explosion

When baby Muriel woke in the morning she saw her first snow. Running to the window, she called upon the swirl of big snowflakes: "Oh, mamma, come quick!" she cried in great excitement, "the sunbeams flewed all to pieces."—Boston Transcript.

Expecting Too Much.

The girl who expects her friends to be perfect has many a disappointment in store. Human nature is full of surprises, but perfection would be the greatest surprise of all. Do not be astonished when you discover some little flaw in your friend's character. For unless love has blinded her, it is very certain that she has discovered a similar flaw in yourself.

ENAMELED KITCHEN TABLES

With Porcelain Tops

We had an opportunity to buy a lot of these Porcelain Top, White Enameled Hard Wood Kitchen Tables and, realizing that you, too, appreciated a bargain, we bought quite a few of them.

And now they are going on sale tomorrow and you may have one for your kitchen. The make-up of these tables is so good that they should last a lifetime. They are made of hard-wood with joints carefully glued and secured by extra long nails. The enameling is so hard that it is 'most impossible to chip it. White, of course.

The tops are made of a special heavy steel coated with several coats of white hard porcelain—the process precludes chipping. Has a rolled-up edge to save dishes from sliding off.

BOARDMAN CHURCH ACTIVE

The Ladies' Aid and members of the congregation of the Boardman Presbyterian Church held a supper in Potts Run Coal Co.'s hall on Thursday April 3, which was a decided success. In addition to the regular supper, ice cream, sandwiches, pies and cake were served to the satisfaction of all. The supper was one of best, which demonstrates very emphatically the ability of the ladies in the culinary art.

The interest was general and there was a good social time. The young men and the little tots of the town furnished the singing, which was very much appreciated. The church is up-to-date in its Ladies' Aid and appreciates their efforts to the fullest extent. The total receipts were $93 and the ladies will please receive thanks for the same. There were 125 men, women and children present. A more congenial crowd, in spirit and otherwise could not be found anywhere, and it speaks well for the work that is being done by the church.

Wealth and Industry as Well as Man Power

Conscription of wealth and industry as well as of man power, as embodied in the universal draft act, has received unanimous support from 4,000 Boston citizens.

This bill, now in congress, provides that every national resource be turned to government control in case of war in order to provide the utmost for protection of the nation. Gen. Charles R. Edwards, commander of the American Legion in Massachusetts, who spoke at a great mass meeting held in Boston, said that the greatest tragedy of the World war was the failure to conscript other resources as well as those of manhood.

Another Legion speaker who was acclaimed for his stand in this direction, was Maj. George L. Berry, international president of the Printing Pressmen's union, who spoke before a gathering of Legion men in the Hub city. Berry, a past national vice commander of the Legion and high in circles of labor organizations, declared that the passage of such an act was the best means to forestall war.

The bill was first passed as a resolution at the New Orleans convention of the Legion, and subsequently introduced in congress. It has received support of Secretary of War John W. Weeks, and other statesmen.

Suits you like at "first sight"

You've worn suits like that often—probably the reason for liking them isn't always clear—the main thing is that you do like them.

The reason—almost always—is because you look your best in them—have a certain feeling of well being and good grooming—are sure of your appearance.

One suit, in particular, that you'll "like at first sight" is the Royal Park development of our tailors at Fashion Park. It's the authentic English idea—adapted from the style the Prince of Wales favors—looks better on more men than any style we've ever shown.

Boy Farmer Proud of His Job

"Bah, bah, black sheep, have you any wool?" Just ask the shepherd of these black twins, twelve-year-old Milton Johnson, a member of the Cabin Sheep club of Watonwan county, Minnesota. He'll tell you how much wool to a pound, he gets in a season from his black flock. More than three bagsful per sheep, too. But the Mother Goose rhyme was written before the days when the boys and girls began raising sheep for profit. Every ounce of the wool from Milton's flock goes to market with his father's clip and the money goes to swell a bank account which is going to send the little shepherd to college some day.

Milton is a member of the large army of Boys' and Girls' club members being encouraged in better agriculture by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation which has entered the field of rural boys' and girls' club work with a definite program of organization and leadership for achievement.

It is planned that a republic of boys and girls will be set up in each county. The youngsters will govern themselves. An advisory committee of adult contributors will guide the work. The foundation will become the demonstrating organization agency and will aid with the agencies as well as leaders.

Simple—But—

How is a Paris creation, the work of one of the most fashionable and expensive designers—yet it could be copied quite successfully by any skillful seamstress. Just a straight sleeveless frock with a few ruffles knowingly placed.

"I Am Like Those Gladiators. I Fight, but Not as One Who Beats the Air"—

By REV. F. E. HOPKINS, Presbyterian Minister, Michigan City, Ind.

What is the matter with our teachers of morals that they should hold up as magnificent examples of the glory of being physically fit such Bible heroes as Samson and then wish to throw Dempsey and Firpo into jail? Why do they denounce war and applaud the pacifist and doughface.

It was by the power of his muscles that Samson, the prophet, lifted the gates of Gaza and paid the Philistines for their injustice in punishing his sin by making their temple a heap of ruins.

It was St. Paul who said, after watching the Olympian athletic games of his day: "I am like those gladiators. I fight, but not as one who beats the air."

Every man, woman, and nation should be so fit no one would dare to kick them. The men who can silence machine guns and drive in a squad of enemy soldiers like so many ducks, and the man who can for five minutes close the eyes of a giant to the beauties of the Hudson, the Palisades, and the Statue of Liberty, as Dempsey did to Firpo, gives the world of normal men and women a healthy holy thrill.
